DEAR FRIENDS,

“Blessed is the one who trusts in the LORD. They will be like a tree planted by the water that sends out its roots by the stream. It does not fear when heat comes; its leaves are always green. It has no worries in a year of drought and never fails to bear fruit.”

After a year in which the Nazareth Prep community grappled with how to educate students safely and effectively, these Scriptures remind us that no person can thrive without nourishment from their environment.

In this Annual Report, we are excited to share the many ways that Nazareth Prep has grounded our students in our founding values — tenacity, resilience, and creativity. We honor students who spread messages of hope and seek justice for our communities. We recognize the internship mentors who open career pathways and the passionate faculty who bring academic subjects to life.

We celebrate the passion of our students — whether for science, athletics, writing, or social justice — and eagerly anticipate the impact they will make. And though we are proud of what we have achieved over the past seven years, we also dare to strike a bold path toward the future with the Pathways of Promise Capital Campaign.

At Nazareth Prep, we know that a just and equitable world can only be brought to fruition through persistence of all who study and work within our walls. Each time a student presses through to finish a challenging assignment, each time a teacher finds a creative way to illustrate a concept, each time a mentor shares their years of expertise, we root our students more securely into the soil that will nourish their growth.

In years to come, I look forward to the many opportunities we will have to ground our students in academic success, professional excellence, vibrant community, and committed faith. No matter your connection to Nazareth Prep, thank you for supporting and sustaining our mission.

Yours in faith and service,

2 GROUNDLED FOR THEIR FUTURE

CELEBRATING THE CLASS OF 2021

“Shout out to God for stopping the rain at six o’ clock!”

Head of School
Rita Canton’s remark

earned a hearty laugh from Nazareth Prep graduates and their supporters, who had crowded under tents to escape the light sprinkling of rain. Despite the cloudy weather, moods were bright as 34 graduates crossed the stage to collect the rewards of a highly unusual school year. After thanking students, families, staff, and board members for their contributions, Sister Linda Yankoski blessed the Class of 2021 for their courage and conviction throughout unprecedented times: “There will never be another year quite like this one.”

Justice Pennix, class salutatorian who will be attending Carlow University on a full scholarship, reminisced about the “rollercoaster” of moving back and forth between in-person and virtual learning. “I’m grateful to sit here today and make the best out of our senior year,” she said.

Commencement speaker Tracey McCants Lewis, Vice President of HR and Deputy General Counsel for the Pittsburgh Penguins, labeled graduates “The Resilient Class” for persevering despite repeated lockdowns, economic disruptions, and the losses of both loved ones and once-in-a-lifetime opportunities. “To say this year has been a lot,” she said, “would be an understatement.” As a proud internship mentor to a Nazareth Prep junior, however, she also shared her admiration for students who have experienced “real-world rigor.” McCants Lewis also drew on Nazareth Prep’s motto for inspiration, urging students to pursue any and all learning opportunities. “Never start thinking you’re done,” she said, stressing the value of staying prepared. “Black Americans risked their lives to get the opportunity to read! Don’t take that for granted.”

In her address, Mrs. Canton took inspiration from the Biblical story of Esther and the well-known words of Sister Thea Bowman: “Remember who you are and whose you are.” She encouraged graduates to define themselves not through the challenges they encounter or the successes they achieve, but through their relationships with God and their ability to effect positive change in the world.

“Be proud of your courage, tenacity, and resilience,” she concluded. “Allow God to lead, and nothing will go wrong.”

Cherub Massey, Nazareth Prep valedictorian, took the stage before diplomas were conferred. Classmates cheered as Mrs. Canton announced that Massey would be attending Boston University on a full academic scholarship. Massey lauded her fellow graduates for turning the obstacles they had faced into acts of service. After sharing fond memories of food drives and basketball championships, she praised classmates for their discomfort with mediocrity. “We wanted more for ourselves,” she said.

“We found passion within our daily routine. We made connections with businesses, law firms, and hospitals. We found meaning and connection in service. And our job now is to make sure our story impacts others.”

INTERNSHIPS MAKING A DIFFERENCE

When Savannah Lewis stepped into the offices of the Pittsburgh Penguins a few months into her sophomore year at Nazareth Prep, she knew she had much to learn. “I had never been in an office setting,” she exclaimed.

Three years later, as Savannah received Nazareth Prep’s St. Joseph the Worker Scholarship in recognition of exceptional internship performance, she attributed much of her growth to the influence of her internship mentor, Tracey McCants Lewis. “With Ms. McCants,” Savannah said, “it was hands-on and personal. I went with her to all her meetings, I was with her on personal calls, and was actually in her office.”

In her role as Vice President of Human Resources and Deputy General Counsel for the Penguins, McCants Lewis introduced Savannah to the complexities of the legal world. Much of their work together centered on the Lower Hill Redevelopment, a massive project that will have a substantial impact on one of Pittsburgh’s most historic African American neighborhoods.

Years of discriminatory policies have stoked distrust of both private and government interests among Hill District residents. To find out how the redevelopment project could incorporate these concerns and garner community support, Savannah spoke with residents from all walks of life. She also interviewed stakeholders from the Penguins, the Hill Community Development Center, and the developers leading the project. Savannah described her work as: “Getting [residents] on the same page with the developers so they can work hand-in-hand, and [so] homeowners and business owners can feel like they’re not being neglected and they still have a part in their area being rebuilt.”

McCants Lewis had nothing but praise for Savannah’s work.

“This was a monumental task for the most seasoned professional,” she said, “and Savannah handled it with ease and professionalism. Her confidence and presence have blossomed during our time together.”

It was for her work on the Lower Hill Redevelopment that Savannah earned the St. Joseph the Worker Scholarship, an honor awarded to only five students each year.

Although Savannah loved learning more about the neighborhood’s history, her most treasured experiences involved legal projects —sitting in with McCants Lewis’ clients and understanding the legal underpinnings of an influential organization. McCants Lewis also looked back fondly on the camaraderie the two had built. “My favorite memories with Savannah are our weekly check-in time over hot chocolate and coffee,” she shared. “[It’s a] time to share wins and opportunities from our last time together.” After a recent check-in, Savannah reflected on how McCants’ feedback made her feel: “Appreciated. Like I’m doing my best, and it shows.”

After graduation, Savannah plans to attend law school and become a judge, a career aspiration that has been her “dream since third grade.” McCants Lewis reflected on the last three years with grace and appreciation. “In my mentorship with Savannah, I’ve also had the opportunity for self-reflection and my own personal growth,” she shared.

“I strive to be a better role model for Savannah and therefore for myself. To be better, and do better.”

INTRODUCING PATHWAYS OF PROMISE

Since 1900, children and families in Western Pennsylvania have depended on the work of Holy Family Institute (HFI) and the Sisters of the Holy Family of Nazareth. HFI has been able to grow and thrive over the years by recognizing the needs of the community and by developing services that meet these needs and support growth in the individuals we serve.

One of HFI's most significant investments in community growth, Nazareth Prep is an innovative and independent Catholic high school for families who could not otherwise afford a private education. The school serves students of all faiths and backgrounds, with a focus on academic excellence and professional skill-building, and prepares graduates to reach their full potential.

Nazareth Prep's hands-on curriculum integrates seamlessly with a mandatory three-year professional internship program, in which students develop real-world skills at more than 80 local companies.

As Nazareth Prep continues to enhance its academic curriculum, athletics, internships, and extracurriculars, it has quickly outgrown its facilities on our shared 10-acre campus in Emsworth, PA. After identifying expansion opportunities, HFI has launched the Pathways of Promise Capital Campaign, a three-phase approach that will create a safer, more accessible campus and give students access to the same resources one would expect to find at any excellent private school. The total cost to execute these plans is $21.3 million.

More information on the project and campaign can be found at hfi-pgh.org/pathways-of-promise-campaign.

During the first phase, HFI's original main administrative building — which was built in 1905 — has undergone significant repairs and renovations, including eight new classrooms for Nazareth Prep, a culinary teaching kitchen, and expanded cafeteria and food service space. The second phase and most significant investment will see the construction of a new Science and Activities Center, a 35,000 square foot building adjacent to the existing high school building. This facility will include locker rooms, storage space, science classrooms, and a multi-use area for performances, events, and athletics. The multi-use performance space will host a modular stage, flexible seating for 600, and a regulation-sized gymnasium — all amenities currently not available to our students. The final phase of the plan includes campus safety improvements like new vehicular patterns, expanded parking, designated student drop off areas for cars and buses, sidewalks, and pedestrian rights-of-way.

Morgan O'Brien, Campaign Cabinet Chair and Holy Family Foundation Board Chair, is excited to participate in a campaign to build more equitable infrastructure for bright, hardworking students from all walks of life. According to O'Brien, "We must provide the curriculum and facilities needed to prepare our students and support their talents and interests." The other 17 cabinet members, who will guide HFI's fundraising efforts, share his excitement. They understand that this campaign will transform lives at Nazareth Prep by granting students equitable access to resources and preparing them for success beyond the graduation stage — in body, mind, and spirit.

Student Perspectives

“It would be helpful to all of the athletes at our school if we had a bigger gym. I also think it is a space that could be used for events, which we don’t have right now. If we had this new building when I was a student, I think we would have been able to learn better, both in sports and science.”

- NAOMI, CLASS OF 2022

“It was pretty cool. A lot of the classrooms seem a lot bigger, and they told us they’re going to make a Home Economics class. I thought, ‘We should’ve had this when we were around!’”

- NAOMI, CLASS OF 2022

“The new gym would definitely get students more excited to come to games. In the past, I know students wanted to go to games, but it was hard to get there, so this will make it easier for them to go. [Having science labs] will get students more engaged.”

- HEAVEN, CLASS OF 2023

“I think it will be helpful for the people who are interested in those things, who want to do [science or sports] for a career someday.”

- TIAIRE, CLASS OF 2023

“I think it could help us so we don’t have to use other gyms as a home gym, but will have our own instead...I would have liked to do more experiments for science in the lab space. [With the traffic flow and parking changes], the buses will probably be a lot more organized and students will have parking space.”

- MEADOW, CLASS OF 2022

GROUNDING IN CONFIDENCE: ALUMNUS PROFILE

When Marquise Wheeler made the long commute from Wilkinsburg to Emsworth to attend Nazareth Prep, he knew he was pursuing opportunities and connections that otherwise might not have been available to him. Reflecting on four years of athletic and academic achievement—which included internships at Heinz Field, Robert Morris University, and Highmark Fitness Center—he imagined how the Pathways of Promise Capital Campaign might enrich the experiences of future classes.

For promising young students like Marquise, who is currently pursuing a degree in physics, Nazareth Prep’s expansion of STEM and athletic facilities will open up even more avenues for career exploration. “After I graduated high school, there was a semester or two where I didn’t know what I wanted to do,” he shared.

“But if I would have had the opportunity to sit in a science lab, I would have known sooner that’s what I wanted to do.”

He noted that the science labs help students build a more sophisticated base of knowledge, setting them on the path toward success beyond high school.

He also spoke enthusiastically about plans for athletics and arts facilities, which will boost school spirit and help students support one another, whether on the stage or on the court. He recalled travelling across the city for basketball practice and games, usually on courts where fans of the opposing team far outnumbered Nazareth Prep supporters. When his team practiced in the current gymnasium, he recounted playful reminders from teammates to “practice around the leaks!”

We know that Nazareth Prep students have a lot of skill, passion, and creativity to give back to their communities, and Marquise is no exception. Before COVID-19, he studied nuclear physics at the University of Pittsburgh and built a graphic design and social media business on the side. Now studying at Community College of Allegheny County, Marquise plans to return to the University of Pittsburgh and graduate with his physics degree. He is grateful for the time he spent at Nazareth Prep and is excited to see his alma mater welcome more students, offer more opportunities for growth, and continue promoting educational equity for all.

Teacher Perspectives

INTERVIEW WITH JENNIE BHOJWANI,
NAZARETH PREP MATH TEACHER

TELL ME A LITTLE ABOUT YOURSELF?

I grew up in Chicago, but I’ve lived in Pittsburgh for about 20 years. I began my career as an auditor for a public accounting firm. A few years later, I took a job in the banking industry, which ultimately led me to Pittsburgh. I married, had two children (now 18 and 20), then enrolled in the University of Pittsburgh, where I earned a Master of Arts in Teaching Secondary Math.

WHAT FIRST DREW YOU TO TEACHING?

I like working with children and gain a great deal of satisfaction from instilling confidence in mathematics. Math is something that many people— young and old—believe that they are not good at, but that anyone can be successful with the right amount of confidence and perseverance. Due to the lack of resources, many urban public schools have failed to provide a rigorous math education. It’s important to me to do my part to help dismantle inequity in urban education.

WHAT ATTRACTED YOU TO NAZARETH PREP?

Nazareth Prep provides a safe, supportive learning environment for youth and teachers. The student population is small, with a low student-to-teacher ratio, and student internship opportunities emphasize that students be ready for college and the workforce. Finally, the school administrators who interviewed me stressed the importance of creating a rigorous learning environment where children are valued and respected.

CAN YOU SHARE A MEMORABLE “LIGHTBULB MOMENT” THAT A STUDENT HAD IN ONE OF YOUR CLASSES?

Last week, students were working with a partner to create a poster that would demonstrate their solution to a problem. One student had solved the problem correctly, but was struggling to put his thinking on paper. He said: “I just thought about it in a crazy way. It’s not the right way to do it. That’s just the way I do things.” I asked him questions, wrote down everything he said, then explained how he solved the problem. I honored his solution path. He had a lightbulb moment when he realized that his process was not crazy — it was valid and correct!

WHAT ARE THE FOUNDATIONAL SKILLS THAT YOU BELIEVE STUDENTS NEED TO BE SUCCESSFUL? HAVE THOSE SKILLS CHANGED IN THE YEARS YOU HAVE BEEN TEACHING?

Students need to be able to work independently, be organized, [and] keep trying even though something is challenging. Time management is another important skill that is particularly challenging to develop due to technology and the Internet. Finally, I believe that communicating with teachers is very important so that they can address the student’s individual needs.

FINALLY, A QUESTION OUR SENIORS ANSWERED—WHAT ADVICE WOULD YOU GIVE TO YOUR HIGH SCHOOL SELF?

Have more confidence in my ability in school! That’s one reason why it’s so important to me to encourage students.

GROUNDED IN EXCELLENCE

INTERVIEW WITH SCHOLAR-ATHLETE HANNAH CALDERARO

This year, the Nazareth Prep girls' basketball team shot to the top of their conference and earned a championship title. Highlighting the school's emphasis on scholar-athleticism, three players — LaRae Butler, Jonna Oree, and Hannah Calderaro (interviewed below) — were also named conference All-Stars.

As the student body grows, so has the range of athletic opportunities available, with basketball, cross country, volleyball, football, and golf teams now active on campus.

HOW DID YOU END UP AT NAZARETH PREP?

My former high school closed at the end of my sophomore year. I enrolled at another Catholic school at the beginning of my junior year. It was not a good fit for me, so then I decided to come to Nazareth Prep.

HOW HAS COVID-19 AFFECTED YOUR LEARNING?

The most annoying part about learning during COVID-19 has been going back and forth from online to in-person learning. Moving to online learning was a big adjustment, but I ended up getting used to it and it wasn't that bad. I started to like it during basketball season, when I would be up late coming back from games.

WHAT STRUGGLES HAVE YOU HAD AT NAZARETH PREP?

I have not had any struggles! The teachers, staff, and students have all been very welcoming since day one. [However], I am a little disappointed that I cannot continue my softball career.

YOUR LAST INTERNSHIP WAS WITH MARONDA FOUNDATION/ YOUTHTOWNE FARM. WHAT DID YOU ENJOY MOST ABOUT THAT EXPERIENCE?

At my internship, I worked with horses. Every day, I would first clean the horse's stalls and check to see if they needed water. I also would feed the barn cats. In May, we hosted a horse show, which was a lot of fun.

WHAT IS YOUR FAVORITE INTERNSHIP MOMENT?

My favorite internship moment was when I got to give a horse a bath!

TELL ME ABOUT YOUR ST. JOSEPH THE WORKER PROJECT.

For my project, I chose to write about how an obstacle in my life affected me and what I learned from the experience. I wrote about the uncertainty I faced when my former high school closed, and my journey to Nazareth Prep.

WHAT ABOUT YOUR BASKETBALL CAREER AND AWARDS YOU HAVE RECEIVED?

I have been playing basketball since the fourth grade. Last year, our Nazareth Prep team won the Girls Basketball Championship. I was recognized as a Top 12 player in our league as an All-League Selection. However, the best part about the season was growing as a team and having fun on and off the court.

WHAT ADVICE WOULD YOU GIVE AN INCOMING TRANSFER STUDENT TO NAZARETH PREP?

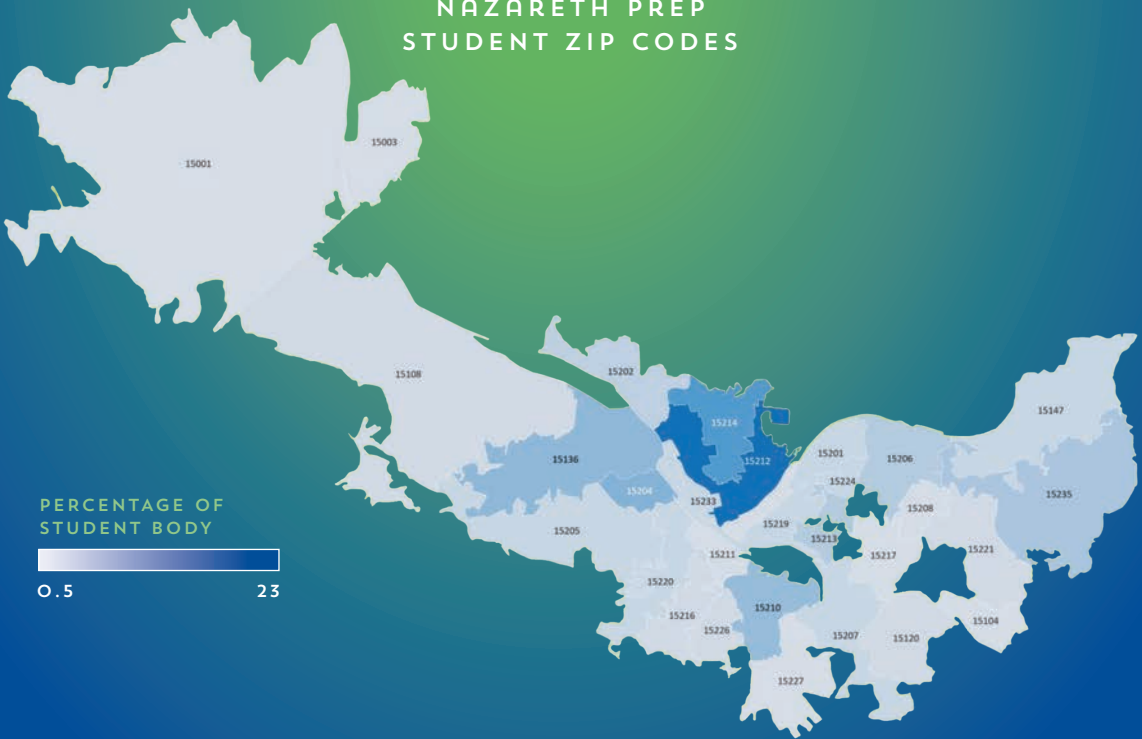

Listen to your teachers — and have fun!
